Summary of the activity of the Panta Rhei Working Groups – Year 2014

Title of the Working Group:

Transdisciplinarity

Report of the activity of the working group in 2014

Writing of a joint paper on transdisciplinary water research (review and perspective) to be submitted end of February 2015 to WIREs Water.

Conference session/workshop organisation

EGU 2014 HS5.8 “Stakeholders, public involvement and collaborative processes in hydrology research and water management”; Conveners: Tobias Krueger, Gemma Carr

Presentations

Carr, G., Blöschl, G. and D.P. Loucks (2014). Developing a dynamic framework to examine the interplay between environmental stress, stakeholder participation processes and hydrological systems. Paper number 3.30. 6th IAHS-EGU International Symposium on Integrated Water Resources Management, Bologna, Italy, 04.-06.06.2014 (talk).

Hermans, L.M., Haasnoot, M. and J.H. Kwakkel (2014). Next stop: implementation. Collaborative monitoring to inform adaptive policy-making and implementation. Paper number 3.11. 6th IAHS-EGU International Symposium on Integrated Water Resources Management, Bologna, Italy, 04.-06.06.2014 (talk).

Krueger, T. and A. Bruns (2014). Upping the social in socio-hydrology. Paper number 2.10. 6th IAHS-EGU International Symposium on Integrated Water Resources Management, Bologna, Italy, 04.-06.06.2014 (talk).

Macleod C.J.A. (2014). Integrative catchment research in support of solutions that provide multiple benefits. The Rivers Trust Spring Conference 2014, Penrith, UK, 11.-12.06.2014 (invited talk).

Macleod C.J.A. (2014). Observing, manipulating and modelling grassland ecosystems services from the plot to catchment scale. TERENO International Conference, Bonn, Germany, 29.09.-02.10.2014 (talk).

Maynard, C. (2014). Situated knowledges in water resources research. RGS-IBG Annual International Meeting, London, UK, 28.08.2014 (talk).

Description of the opportunities provided by Panta Rhei

New cooperation between working group participants through writing joint paper.
