Special Session
Stockholm Water Prize Laureates
October 9, 2025
8'45am

In recognition of the Stockholm Water Prize — the most prestigious award in the field of water science — this special session brings together the three most recent laureates. Their outstanding contributions have significantly shaped our discipline, and the IAHS community is honored to share reflections on past achievements, current challenges, and future directions in water-related research. Their insights will inspire the next generation of hydrologists.
