

Water & Health

Integrated solutions to the global water and health crisis

Vision: To integrate innovations in hydrological sciences for reducing, mitigating and preventing a global ecosystem and public health crisis

Partnerships:

UNESCO IHP
WHO ICWQ

Water and Health Solutions Beyond the Technological nature > nature sustainability > comment > article

Comment | Published: 24 August 2020

Water and sanitation for all in a pandemic

David M. Hannah, Iseult Lynch, Feng Mao, Joshua D. Miller, Sera L. Young & Stefan Krause ✉

Nature Sustainability 3, 773–775(2020) | Cite this article

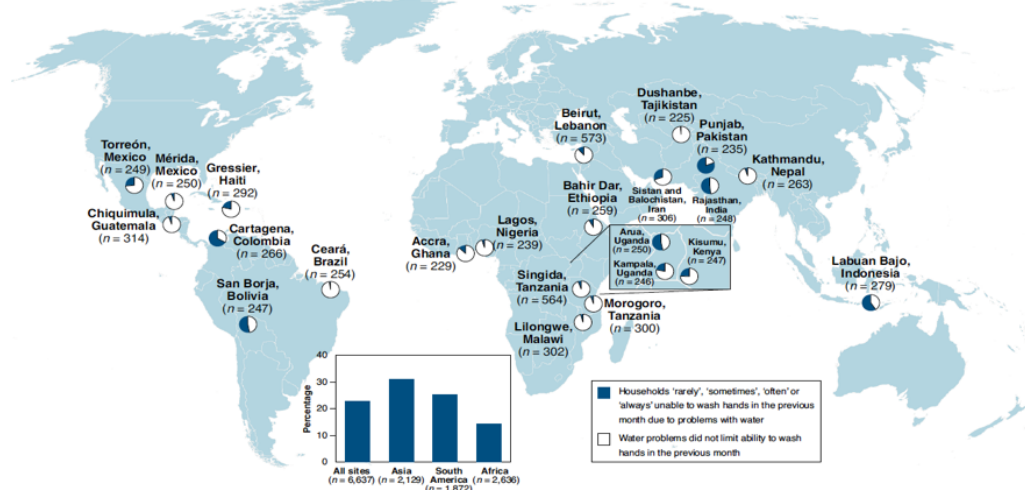

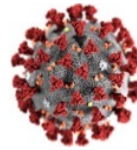

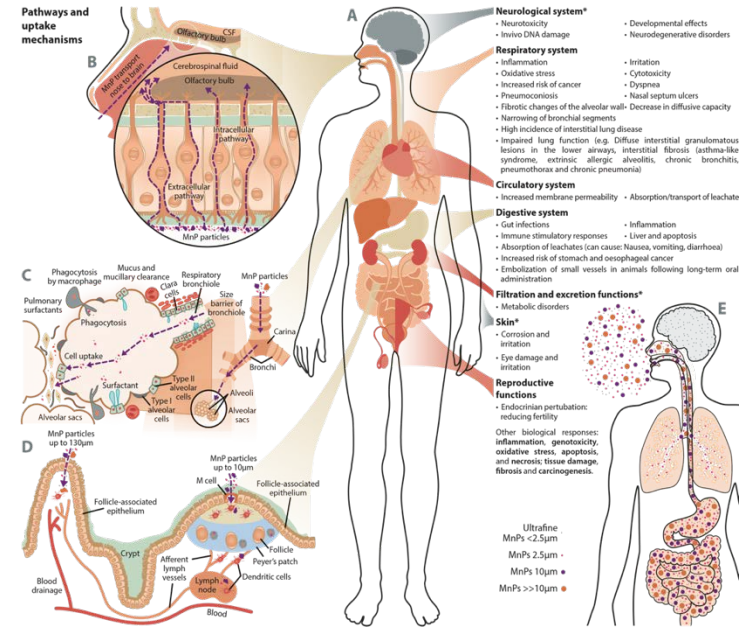

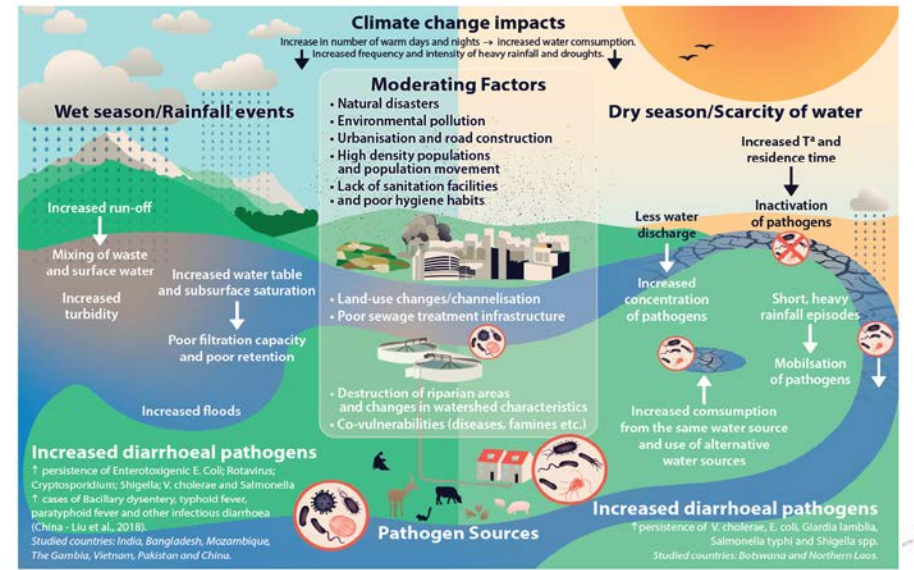

Fig. 1 | Proportion of households across 23 sites in 20 low- and middle-income countries that were unable to wash their hands in the previous month because of problems with water. Data are from ref. ³ (n = 6,637).

[Krause et al., CellPress Medicine, in review]

[Margenat et al., in prep]

Governance:

General Assembly, ECR representative

Strategy:

Linking across traditional disciplinary boundaries, highlight demonstration projects

Activities:

(short-mid-long-term):

Regular meetings

Conference sessions (incl townhall meetings)

Challenge led workshops workshops

Water & Health conference

