The international symposium on River sediment quality and quantity: environmental, geochemical and ecological perspectives continues the series of symposia organized under the auspices of the International Commission on Continental Erosion (ICCE), which is one of the ten commissions of the International Association of Hydrological Sciences (IAHS). The first ICCE symposium was held in Florence, Italy more than 30 years ago, and recent symposia have been held in Dundee, UK in 2006; Christchurch, New Zealand in 2008; Warsaw, Poland in 2010; Chengdu, China in 2012; New Orleans, USA in 2014; Okehampton, UK in 2016 and in Moscow, Russia in 2018. The 2020 ICCE Symposium will be held at Bydgoszcz in Poland.

Conference will address:

- Sediment quantity – cascades, budgets, yields
- Sediment impacts on river channel hydromorphology and management
- Sediment quality – geochemistry, nutrients, contaminants, emerging issues
- Sediment-biota interactions

Conference programme will include:

- Oral and poster thematic sessions
- Field excursion to hydrotechnical projects on Vistula River
- Cultural program in Bydgoszcz link - about Bydgoszcz
